In the media

Dear Readers,

April has been a productive month for the Inclusive Society Institute (ISI), marked by the release of two significant publications. On 12 April, we released "Reflections on the Zero Draft of the Pact for the Future," offering in-depth analysis and insights on this crucial document.

This was followed by our publication, "Managing Social Cohesion in Diverse Communities: Can South Africa Draw Lessons from Singapore," which explores valuable strategies for fostering social cohesion based on Singapore's experiences.

These publications highlight our ongoing commitment to addressing both global and local challenges. We continue to engage with diverse communities, share knowledge, and advocate for inclusive policies.

Our presence in the media, including discussions on electoral reforms and social cohesion, underscores our role in shaping informed public discourse. Our work received increasing attention, particularly in the run-up to the 2024 national and provincial elections.

Thank you for your support and engagement.

Warm regards,

Daryl Swanepoel
