Dear Readers,

As we enter what will be a significant year for South Africa, I am pleased to share updates from the Inclusive Society Institute (ISI) for December 2023 and January 2024.

The #Integritasza Conference, held on 5 and 6 December, explored the theme of Coalition Governance in South Africa, crucial in the context of the upcoming 2024 elections. We delved into challenges and opportunities at the Andrew Murray Centre of Spirituality, Wellington.

In December, we released two publications. "Leveraging Special Economic Zones for Growth" discusses economic development strategies, while our "Public Submissions: Electoral Matters Amendment Bill [B 42-2023]" reflects our ongoing involvement in shaping electoral processes.

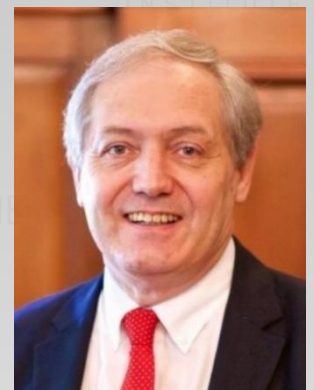

January saw the release of "Overview of the Construction Mafia Crisis in South Africa," highlighting pressing issues in the construction industry.

ISI's insights were featured in the media, addressing topics from political dynamics to economic challenges and global humanitarian concerns.

As we continue our commitment to positive change, your support is invaluable. We look forward to further collaborations in the coming months.

Warm regards,

Daryll Swanepoel

#Integritasza Conference

#integritasza – Coalition-Conference 2023 with the theme Coalition Governance in South Africa: Dedicated Desired State or Destructive Disasters, was held on 5 and 6 December 2023 at the Andrew Murray Centre of Spirituality, in Wellington. The conference aimed to explore the challenges and opportunities of South African coalition governance, in the context of the 2024 South African national and provincial government elections.
