South Africa's growth potential in absence of economic speed bumps

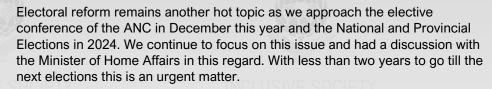

In the media

Dear Reader,

The challenge of xenophobia was the focus of two events hosted by the Inclusive Society Institute (ISI) during the past month. The first was a virtual workshop hosted in partnership with the Centre for Leadership Ethics in Africa (CLEA) on 4 August, and the second was a roundtable held on 17 August.

South Africa is part of a global community, where migration is a natural occurrence. How the country manages its resources in this context becomes very important, considering the current economic climate. It is therefore not surprising that xenophobia is so topical at the moment.

I am also pleased that our international work received attention during this period. Among others, the ISI participated in a panel discussion on UN reform which was organised by the Communications Directorate of Turkiye's Presidency.

This month's newsletter highlights the abovementioned as well as other activities of the ISI. We are proud to share this with you. Please, do not hesitate to let us have any feedback on this edition of our newsletter.
